FEW & FAR LUVHONDO

Few & Far creates extraordinary eco-hospitality experiences that endeavor to protect and preserve wild places around the world.

Few & Far designs sustainable, luxury travel experiences across Southern and East Africa. Each journey is built around a simple belief: that travel, done well, can rediscover the wonder of a place, protect the nature within it, and redefine what luxury means along the way.

From tented camps beside national parks to eco-lodges in some of the world's most biodiverse landscapes, our properties and itineraries are crafted for carbon-neutral discovery — pairing five-star comfort with genuine conservation and community impact. Our flagship property, Few & Far Luvhondo in South Africa's Soutpansberg Mountains, reflects this philosophy: a safari lodge built to protect, preserve and rewild the land it calls home.

OUR APPROACH

- Rediscover travel — immersive journeys to the world's wildest and most extraordinary places
- Protect nature — carbon-neutral operations and active conservation partnerships
- Redefine luxury — exceptional design, dining and hospitality with purpose

OUR IMPACT

We hold ourselves to rigorous standards of social and environmental performance. Our conservation work spans tree planting, ecosystem management and rewilding, with properties on track to sequester significant additional carbon each year across landscapes that hold more biodiversity than all of Europe. Our efforts have been featured in The New York Times and Travel + Leisure.

ANDREA FELDMAN FALICONE

Art Curator & Travel Specialist

Art and travel have shaped Andrea's life since childhood. At ten, she attended the Basel Art Fair with her father, who was exhibiting. After college, she spent three months interning at the Peggy Guggenheim Collection in Venice, Italy.

Her professional career began at The Museum of Modern Art, New York, in the Department of Prints and Illustrated Books, where she curated exhibitions, researched acquisitions, and couriered artworks to destinations around the world. After nine years at MoMA, she moved to Los Angeles to work with collector and philanthropist Eli Broad, helping build the collection that became The Broad, now regarded as one of the premier private art museums. From 2000 to 2007, she curated the collections of Michael Ovitz, which spanned modern, contemporary, and African art. In 2007, she founded her art advisory business, working with a small group of internationally based collectors to build their collections.

Since 2012, Andrea has also led art-focused travel for museum and travel groups.

Originally from Scarsdale, New York, Andrea holds a BA in Art History from Brown University. She lives in Los Angeles with her husband. They are the proud parents of 18-year-old twins.
